Unusual hotels

For a unique experience – stay three metres underwater or in a sinking house in Lake Mälaren.

With his vision and unique hotels, artist Mikael Genberg has really put Västerås on the map. Hotel Utter Inn attracts visitors from around the world who want to stay below the waterline, as this is a submerged hotel in Västeråsfjärden, just off Västerås harbour. As well as Utter Inn, a stroll along Lake Mälaren will also give you a glimpse of Oops Hotel, the sinking house, which is moored up at Färjkajen. Another of Mikael's works in Västerås is Hotel Hackspett, up a mighty oak in Vasaparken.

KARLSGATAN 2 – ONE BUILDING, TWO MUSEUMS
Karlsgatan 2 has become a meeting place for art and cultural heritage. Västmanland's County Museum gives visitors the opportunity to experience and learn something new through lectures, guided tours, exhibitions and projects. Västerås Art Museum holds exhibitions of Swedish and Nordic contemporary art and work from its own collections.

SKULTUNA BRASSWORKS
The brassworks are situated north of Västerås and with its museum and shop it offers visitors the chance to enjoy both the past and the present. Skultuna Brassworks works together with many modern designers, and its products, which include candlesticks and plant pots, have regained popularity in recent years. The brassworks is also home to crafts shops and outlet stores.

VÄSTERÅS CASTLE

Västerås Castle is situated in central Västerås. The castle received its current appearance in the mid-16th century when it was altered and rebuilt by King Gustav Vasa. Prince Erik XIV, the successor to the throne, was given his own rooms here but little did he know that the castle would become his prison.

TIDÖ CASTLE

STRÖMSHOLMS PALACE

A royal palace in a stunning location on the Strömsholm canal, this castle boasts well-preserved royal interiors and a large art collection.

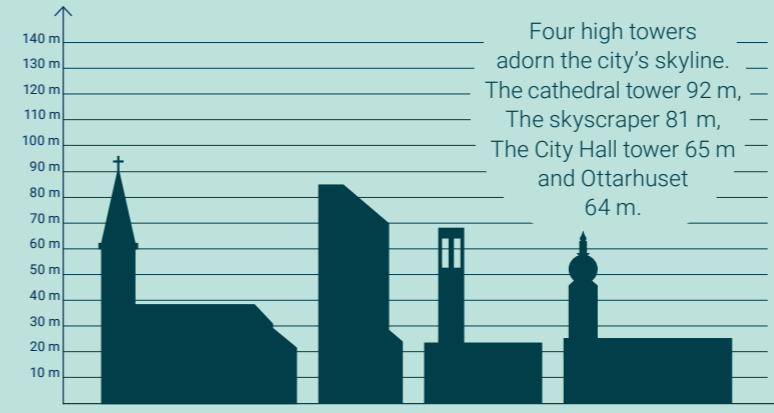

ENGSÖ CASTLE

Engsö Castle outside Västerås is well worth a visit. Besides being a beautiful building in picturesque surroundings, rumour has it that it is haunted!
